Project management and quality assurance

Project management is a key factor that empowers projects to run on time, at cost and in a way that fulfils desired objectives. It involves the application of skills, tools and techniques to efficiently manage activities, stakeholders, outcomes and resources in a synchronised way. Globally, weak project management is often a root cause of project failure. Aligned with leading practice, Keypoint's proprietary project management methodology has helped a number of clients close large and complicated projects – as well as smaller activities – on time and at cost, protecting investments and delivering promised results.

Our teams work with projects' internal and external stakeholders by:

- Defining charters, work breakdown structures, roles and responsibilities and communication plans
- Monitoring and overseeing progress
- Managing communication between stakeholders
- Recording, analysing and resolving conflicts
- Documenting, reporting and escalating project risks
- Reporting on project progress

For clients with internal project management teams, our expert project managers offer an independent perspective. Our quality assurance team can:

- Assess project quality
- Diagnose project issues
- Recommend resolutions aligned with leading practice
- Reducing the risk of surprises resulting from poor communication or limited transparency
